QUICK DECLINE, SCALE PROBLEMS FACING CITRUS

PORTERVILLE - Citrus growers in southeastern Tulare county have "faced up" to the problem of red scale control as something they will have to handle on their own, while continuing to support the Central California Pest Control agency as the entity through which tristeza, commonly referred to as quick decline, is being detected and controlled.

For a period of several years, prior to July 1, 1968, both red scale and quick decline control measures were in the hands of the Central agency, which was composed of six citrus pest control districts in Kern, Tulare and Fresno counties, including the Southern Tulare County Citrus Pest Control district that lies along the citrus belt from Welcome road south to the Kern

'Twas Back There In 1950

Editorial Comment

CLARIFICATION IS IN ORDER

There may or may not be a "peace march" in Porterville Saturday morning.

If there is, it will probably be organized by a new group trying to gain a foothold in the Porterville community - The Brown Berets, generally classed as a political activist group composed of Mexican-Americans.

Prime Minister of the Brown Berets in Porterville is Gilbert Rodriquez, who first came onto the local news scene about four years ago as the "Athletic Burglar," hitting more than 30 local business establishments before he was apprehended. He spent time with the California Youth Authority, was paroled, was again arrested as a burglary suspect, then, in September showed up as a student at Porterville college and the organizer of the local Brown Berets.

Recently, he dropped out of school.

In so far as we can determine his Brown Beret organization is getting no support from established, legitimate organizations within the local Mexican-American community.

At no time have the Brown Berets had any official sanction of Porterville college, nor have they been recognized as a campus organization.

Mentioned also in connection with the parade that may or may not be held Saturday is the Black Ambassadors at Porterville college.

This group is a recognized and sanctioned campus organization. Approved activities however, do not include marching in a demonstration that is of questionable legal status, consequently, we are told by college officials, if Black Ambassadors do march, it will be as individuals and not as a Porterville College Campus organization.

Why is there a question of march or no march?

When a parade permit was requested this week from the city of Porterville, the permit was denied by the chief of police on logical grounds involving law enforcement.

Those persons desiring to conduct a march can appeal this decision to the Porterville city council, however there does not appear to be sufficient time to bring the matter before the council, prior to Saturday.

There is, reportedly, some conversation now about whether to march, permit or no permit.

Sad part of the entire situation is that marches, and demonstrations, and heckling, and so-called confrontation is not helping the legitimate achievement of equality, nor the improvement of laws aimed at equality, nor the election of high-principled men to public office.

These types of tactics are now knocking down the professed goals that they are supposedly being used to attain, while students, and others - many sincere and well-intentioned - are being played for suckers by leaders whose major goal is political power.

We believe Porterville college students are intelligent enough to realize this if they just make it a point to become informed.

Truth, Reason

Incoming students on nine state university campuses have been welcomed to a brave new world of truth and reason, "where there is room for all viewpoints and support for human dignity and values; in short, a place where the rights of all are respected."

These words of UC president Charles J. Hitch paint a considerably different picture of the university from that created during the past years by student activists, especially on the Berkeley campus.

But he pointed out to the new students that UC policies, while guaranteeing freedom of speech and advocacy do prohibit acts of force and violence.

With that hopeful admonition, California parents and taxpayers will now watch to see just how things work out.

Ed Doolittle Very Critical of Democrats And Offers Figures to Back Case

UNCLE CLARENCE
... from CLEAR CREEK

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Ed Doolittle, that claims the only good Democrat is one that's out of office and barred from voting, told the fellers at the country store Saturday night the Democrats was now trying to run the only Government in the history of the world that was losing two wars at the same time. He allowed the only thing the Administration was handling worse than the Vietnam War was the Poverty War.

Ed came to the meeting with a pocketful of newspaper clippings and he was riled up because he had saw where the professional pore has formed the National Welfare Rights Organization. The feller that heads up this new welfare union said it was started because the pore needed a new voice, Ed reported. The feller said the civil rights movement weren't moving and the War on Poverty was being lost.

One of the aims of the NWRO, Ed said, was sit-ins at all the places that has to do with giving tax money away. The reason these pore want to break up the welfare system is that less than 10 million of the 200 million people in this country is on welfare, and they say at least 30 million needed Government aid. The trouble is, the pore union says, not enough people knows their rights. The NWRO will hold free classes to explain to folks where and how to git welfare.

At the same time, Ed said, welfare services was growing faster than any part of the country's economy. In the last four year, his newspaper clipping said, the average monthly welfare aid to a family of four in New York City has jumped from $196 to $272, the cost has gone from $416 million a month to more than $1 billion, and 200,000 names has been added to the welfare rolls in the past year, in spite of the fact they was more than 250,000 jobs in New York City going begging.

He said he had said it at a session at the store last month, and he would say it again. The only hope the Democrats got to stay in office was to git a majority of the voters on relief and they was coming pritty close to it now. None of them folks was going to bite the hand that feeds 'em, was Ed's words.

Mister Editor, when Ed declares war on the Democrats he is so loaded with reports and statistics the rest of the fellers can't git up much of a offensive. Several times Clem Webster of the Great Society butted in, but Ed turned his hearing aid off and kept right on going.

Personal, Mister Editor, I didn't take no part in the battle Saturday night, but I'm about come to the belief that when the Government, Democrat or Republican, gits a toeholt it's as hard to stop as crabgrass.

Yours truly,
— Uncle Clarence.

PRIVATE ENTERPRISE WORKS

A heartwarming story of how our American private enterprise system offers opportunities and rewards to those who are willing to put it to work comes out of Southern California.

A year ago five Dutch farm families migrated from the Netherlands to Carpinteria to raise flowers. With limited funds, no friend or relative, and with only one of the group able to speak a little English, they did their own weather and resource surveys, made a down payment on 26 acres, brought a dismantled old greenhouse over from the old country, cut their first flowers last November, and have since grossed more than $250,000.

Said one of the group's leaders, Hank Van Wingerden, in an interview with the Los Angeles Times, "We do good because going together we are strong. And we work hard, sunup, sundown, all us, men, women, kids, too."

Asked why they left a spot where their families had raised flowers for generations, Van Wingerden explained: "Too much socialism. Too many bureaucrats spoiling Holland. Sure, taxes in America. But not like Holland. Government insurance on everything to make socialism work. Have to pay, pay, pay."

We don't like to disillusion these admirable people, but there are those in America who are working hard to turn America into another Holland. Pay, pay, pay.

RAIN

heavier rain fall was recorded, grass will be coming on soon; citrus and olive orchards will benefit.

As for cotton, it appears that little if any damage was done generally, since in most areas, bolls dried out rapidly following the rain.

Effect on Emperor grapes will not be known for a few days; there was little hay down; raisins were practically all in.

Splitting of fruit is becoming a problem as Navel oranges develop rapidly.

We Only Heard

BY BILL RODGERS

QUESTION - How come the landscaping on the new Porterville city parking lots is being done by an out-of-town firm?

ANSWER - Landscaping is not a separate item of work. It is part of the total parking lot construction bid that did go to Porterville firms - the L. Williams Construction company and the Porterville Asphalt company. Mr. Williams' bid was low on a competitive basis.

BIG WEST magazine, in a recent issue, recounted the exploits of one of Porterville's most famous bronc riders - Bertha Blancett. In a story about women rodeo performers, the writer Lee Ryland, had this to say about Bertha, who was a big time rodeo star during the early days of the century, "Bertha Blancett also gave performances worth remembering. She'd come out of the chutes on a bronc that bucked like he had 'hurry-up' medicine on his rump. She'd follow every bone-jarring twist and turn with such a casual grace it would bring her audience to a standing ovation. Bertha was tops in Roman Riding, and usually led the field at the finish line and the pay-off window ... During the winter months, when the rodeos were over, she worked for Bison Moving Pictures as a stunt rider. This kind of a job was made to order for Bertha - it gave her a chance to attempt anything different, and she became one of the few women who could 'trip' a horse at full gallop." With the story is a photo of Bertha winning the Ladies Roman Race at the Pendleton Roundup more than a half century ago ... If Big West had really researched Bertha, they would have learned that she appeared on NBC's nationally televised show, "It Could Be You," in 1961 and in the same year was grand marshal of the Pendleton Roundup, the first woman to ever be accorded that honor ... And they might have found out that Bertha won the women's bucking horse competition at Pendleton in 1911, 1912 and 1914, in fact it was in 1914 that rules were changed to force women to compete in a class of their own and barred them from competing against the men, after Bertha had come within 12 points of winning the all-around championship.

Vegetable Crops Record Record Last Year

SACRAMENTO - Total production of California's vegetable, melon, and strawberry crops in 1967 established a new record high at 7,792,000 tons. This total tonnage is 2 percent higher than production in 1966 and over 9 percent higher than the 1962-66 average.

Processing tomato production at 3.2 million tons, the highest since 1962, contributed substantially to the production increase over 1966. Other vegetables which recorded significant increases in production were cantaloups, onions, spinach for processing, cabbage and strawberries. Crops with pronounced declines from 1966 included market tomatoes, asparagus for processing, sweet corn, and watermelons.

Total value of California's vegetable, melon, and strawberry crops also set a new record in 1967, estimated at about $661 million compared with the previous record of nearly 655 million set in 1966. Processing tomatoes, with a value of nearly $124 million, contributed most to the increase.

Crop value for carrots, cantaloups, strawberries and bell peppers also showed marked increases. However, crop values for lettuce, market tomatoes, asparagus for processing, onions and cabbage declined from 1966.

Nationally, California continued to lead all other states in the production of vegetable and melon crops produced for fresh market and processing in 1967. During the year, the state accounted for 34 percent of the United States total production of the 27 principal fresh market crops and about 35 percent of the total production of the 10 major processing crops.

California provided 100 percent of the United States production of artichokes, garlic, and market green peas, 91 percent of Brussels sprouts, 83 percent of broccoli, 74 percent of honeydews, 67 percent of cauliflower, 61 percent of lettuce, 61 percent of tomatoes for processing, 56 percent of cantaloups, 55 percent of celery, 46 percent of the asparagus, 44 percent of strawberries, 37 percent of carrots, and 28 percent of fresh market tomatoes.

DUFFY NAMED MAN OF YEAR BY ASSOCIATION

HANFORD - Assemblyman Gordon Duffy (Tulare-Kings Co.) received the "Man of the Year" award by the University of California Optometric Alumni association at a banquet at Lake Tahoe, Saturday.

Duffy is the first legislator to be selected. He was cited for his outstanding service as a lawmaker and specifically for his work as chairman of the important Assembly Committee on Public Health.

A 1948 graduate of the University of California School of Optometry, he was first elected to the State Assembly in 1964. He is now seeking his third term.

WATER FOWL SEASON OPENS SATURDAY

SACRAMENTO - California's 1968-69 general waterfowl season opens Saturday, October 19, with pre-season count of birds in the Central Valleys being 781,000, about the same as last year. Bulk of the birds are in the Sacramento valley.

BANKRUPT FARMERS MEAN POVERTY FOR TULARE COUNTY!

A great struggle is taking place today in the vineyards of Delano and in the supermarkets of our major cities.

One side says grape workers should be free to join or not join the union of their choice.

THE OTHER SIDE SAYS THEY MUST JOIN A UNION DESPITE THEIR EXPRESSED WISHES NOT TO. This side is using an illegal boycott, complete with pickets and threats to frightened shoppers, to pressure Tulare County agriculture into submission.

MAX RAFFERTY CONDEMNS THIS TYPE OF TYRANNY. His opponent thinks it's wonderful. His opponent knows nothing about real wages or actual working conditions in the vineyards, but he's willing to support this fuzzy idea for farm prosperity on the basis of advice from unions and labor politicians.

If YOU want to KEEP LOCAL FARM LABOR FREE - if you want to PRESERVE LOCAL FARM PROSPERITY and if you think it's high time somebody in Washington SUPPORTED THE POLICE and APPROVED of LAW and ORDER - then this is the time to VOTE FOR MAX RAFFERTY.

Contributions for promotion of Rafferty's campaign in Tulare County are urgently needed. Send to P. O. Box 1508, Visalia, California 93277.

Now that we have experienced our first rain of the season we can sit back and enjoy life. Everything is dusted off, the lawn is watered, the leaves are composting right where they fall. The politicians have everthing decided, the parking lots are nearly finished, and the holiday season is almost at hand.

There are a few garden chores that can be done if you're the restless type. For instance you can plant all sorts of small started plants for winter color. Dwarf snapdragons and dwarf phlox are a couple you might have overlooked. You may also try dwarf boxwood hedge, English Ivy, and ornamental strawberry for ground cover. These not only beautify the yard but take two inches off your waist.

Bulbs we have to mention because they are not always available. By the time you see them blooming in your neighbor's yard it's too late to plant. We have a great many kinds from all over the world that are excellent for growing in Porterville. We also have a few that aren't so great for here but you insist on trying so we insist on carrying them.

We're open Sundays the rest of this month so come browse around and have a look while the weather and daylight hours remain usable.

Total Poultry Receipts In 1967 13 Per Cent Below Previous Year

SACRAMENTO - Gross cash receipts from California's poultry and poultry products in 1967 totaled $311 million, 13 percent below the previous years' record high, according to the California Crop and Livestock Reporting service.

California continued to lead the nation in egg production for the ninth straight year, with 12 percent of the United States production. The 8.1 billion eggs produced set a new record for California. Although production set a new record, cash receipts, at $190 million, were 17 percent below 1966. Depressed egg prices, the lowest since 1941, accounted for this decrease in cash receipts.

The broiler chicken industry continued to expand setting a new record high. Cash receipts of $45.5 million, were three percent above 1966 and the highest since 1953. Increased production accounted for the higher cash receipts.

California turkey production in 1967 set a new record level. However, cash receipts from sales of turkeys decreased seven percent to $70.6 million due to the lowest price since 1940.

Depressed egg prices during 1967 and continuing into 1968 caused producers to order fewer replacement chicks. Placements of egg-type pullet chicks during the first three months of 1968 were 12 percent below 1967.

Egg production during the first quarter of 1968 totaled 2,021 million eggs, six percent above the same period in 1967. Placements of broiler chicks in the first three months totaled 17,412,000 chicks, seven percent below 1967.

Turkey producers in California reported in January that they intended to raise 25 percent fewer turkeys during 1968. If intentions are carried through, this will be the smallest turkey crop since 1959.

The January 1, 1968 inventory indicated 1,582,000 turkeys four months old on California farms and ranches including 727,000 breeder hens. Placements of poult in California from September 1, 1967 through March 1968 were 45 percent below the same period a year earlier.

VISALIA SEEKS INDUSTRIAL PARK FEDERAL FUNDS

VISALIA - Visalia city council has applied for $200,000 in federal funds through the office of the Economic Development administration to cover half the cost of a $400,000 project to bring sewage and water systems to a proposed 160 acre industrial park north of the Visalia Municipal airport.

Balance of project cost is expected to be handled by a non-profit group headed by Al Balin. The area, near the present Visalia industrial complex, is expected to be annexed to the city.

RULING SAYS SHELLS IN MAGAZINE ARE NOT ILLEGAL

SACRAMENTO - Hunters may carry a rifle or shotgun with shells in the magazine while traveling in a vehicle on a public road or highway in unincorporated areas outside any village or town, according to a ruling by State Attorney General Thomas C. Lynch.

However, it is against the law to carry a shell or cartridge in the firing chamber of a rifle or shotgun in a vehicle under any conditions if the vehicle is on any public road.

The ruling further means that while a hunter can carry a gun with shells in the magazine on roads and highways in unincorporated areas, he must remove all shells from the gun upon entering any incorporated or unincorporated town.

Cooperative Merges With Food Company

SAN FRANCISCO - Allied Grape growers, a California co-op, has agreed to merge a major share of its wholly-owned production and marketing subsidiary, United Vintners, Inc., with Heublein, Inc., a leading wine, liquor, beer and food company.

It is the first instance of a cooperative being acquired by a publicly-held corporation and, according to authorities, may set a precedent for other co-ops seeking growth opportunities.

In a tax-free exchange of 233,707 shares of common stock and 2,531,900 shares of new-issue, convertible preferred stock, Heublein will acquire all of the dividend paying shares of a new corporation, Heublein Allied Vintners, Inc. United Vintners will be a wholly-owned subsidiary.

Allied Growers will retain equity stock in Heublein Allied Vintners and will receive 20 percent of its pre-tax earnings in the form of a supplement for supplying it with grapes at market price.

Based on the closing price of Heublein common stock on the New York Stock Exchange, September 24, the transaction has a value of more than $33 million.

KERN JC DISTRICT GETS FEDERAL GRANT

WASHINGTON, D.C. - Congressman Bob Mathias (R-18th Dist.) has announced that the Office of Education in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare has approved an immediate grant of $26,642 for the Kern Joint Junior College district. This grant constitutes half of the federal assistance that the Junior College district is entitled to during the 1969 fiscal year. The grant is made pursuant to Public Law 874, which aids educational districts providing facilities for the children of service personnel and other government employees.

Lettuce supplies from the Salinas area are declining.

SEVERAL MONTHS ago Mrs. James Johnston, center, gathered up 14 boxes of clothing at request of her brother, Warrant Officer John Sparks, right, who was a helicopter pilot in Vietnam, and members of the Porterville Women's club, with Ethel Prestage, left, as chairman, took care of postage and shipping of the clothing to Vietnam. This week Sparks visited briefly in Porterville, enroute from a year's tour of duty in Vietnam to Fort Bragg, North Carolina, and told of what happened to the clothing. Original intent was to give the clothing to the people of Plei Manhue, in the central highlands of South Vietnam, however, before the clothing arrived, the Viet Cong moved into the village and began to shell the base where his unit was stationed. As a result the people of Plei Manhue were relocated in another area, and the clothing from Porterville was given to an orphanage in Pleiku where 400 homeless and parentless children are located. Sparks, a 13-year veteran of army service, attended Terra Bella elementary school and Porterville High school. In Vietnam he flew 1,300 hours as a helicopter pilot and among his decorations are the Bronze Star, two Distinguished Flying Crosses, the Air Medal, the Purple Heart and the South Vietnamese Cross of Gallantry.

COUNTY GETS MONEY FROM U.S. FOREST

SACRAMENTO - Thirty-nine counties containing United States forest reserve areas received apportionments totaling $8,605,082 from the Federal government, State Controller Hugh Flournoy reports.

This amount represents 25 percent of the total revenues from forest reserves in California received by the Federal Government during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1968 - an increase of $2,136,117 or 33.02 percent over the comparable apportionment for the preceding year.

Tulare county's share was $147,991.92.

One-half of the amount apportioned to each county is deposited in its County School Service fund and one-half in its County Road fund.

NEW HOURS SET FOR COUNTY DUMPS

VISALIA - Effective Sunday, October 27, Tulare County Refuse Disposal sites will be open from 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. for the duration of standard time. They will continue to be closed on Mondays, according to L. B. Augustson, Road commissioner.

OUR TOWN

By Ruth Loyd

The football team was supposed to have dinner after the game at Rosso's. They arrived late, but that didn't matter. Al and Dolores were ready for them. The head coach was the first to get off the bus. It was then he saw that the front of the restaurant was caved in. "What happened Al? Did some drunk drive through your front door?" Ha, Ha. Ooooooops! He didn't! You're kidding? If someone had to run through their front door, Al and Dolores were glad it was Ray. It couldn't happen to a nicer person. It was a new car, and Ray wasn't used to the new gadgets. Funny tho. Ray had been trying to get Al to buy a new car, but to drive it through into the foyer was a little drastic, I thought.

I couldn't believe my eyes. A character actor in the movie of Lady Godiva looked so familiar. He looked like the Jolly Green Giant in his sixteenth century costume, and his dutch cut wig. He got into one heck of a fight with about fifty of the King's soldiers, and threw half of them into the river. I was very impressed when Lady Godiva rode through town and this character actor kept his noble head down, and didn't even try to peek. He rode a horse too. I didn't know Sim knew how to ride a horse. He didn't get the girl at the end tho, but he was there. You couldn't miss him. When he stood up, the rest of the cast looked like pigmys. Then the phone calls started to come in. Did you see Sim? Didn't he look darling in that costume? I didn't know Sim had been a movie star besides all the other great things he has done. What talent in the Iness family.

Myron Wilcox is another favorite giant in OUR TOWN. He has hidden talent also. He doesn't run around throwing people off bridges, but he can bake bread. Miriam says his bread is delicious. I'll bet their house smells great on baking day. Nothing smells better than baking bread. It's a wonder the Wilcox family isn't over weight. Newly baked bread and real butter. I like the crust best. Lucky Wilcox family.

Wasn't that a lovely rain? All over OUR TOWN smoke was coming out of chimneys. Along with the football on T.V., a nice fire in the fireplace. We can see the mountains again. All washed and clean.

We have a new grandson in our family, and while mama was busy with the new baby I ran herd on our two-year-old grandson. "Can't you kick the ball higher Granny?" I thought I was doing fine. He is learning to throw rocks, and coming from a long line of super athletes, he

Rafferty Will Support Kuchel Water Legislation

FRESNO - California farmers heard welcome news from U. S. Senate Candidate Max Rafferty during a recent visit of the Republican nominee to Fresno.

In a conference with several Tulare county supporters, one a prominent rancher, Rafferty declared his support for the East Side canal, and simultaneously expressed a willingness to open for new studies the 160 acre limitation of the Bureau of Reclamation.

"I will continue to press for passage of the water legislation introduced by Senator Tom does this very well. I made the mistake of turning my back on him, and got a clod of dirt in the back of my head. My eyes were crossed for a few minutes, but I recovered. I'm going to have a long talk with his father.

Happiness is putting salt on snails.

Kuchel," Declared Rafferty emphatically when asked about his views by rancher Bob McClain of Ivanhoe and Dr. Edwin Ropes of Woodlake.

"Dr. Rafferty assured us of his concern about the water problems of California agriculture," said Ropes, "He said he had every hope of pushing Kuchel's East Side Canal legislation to a successful vote."

"He further told us he favored a thorough re-study of the 160 acre limitation which is currently working such a hardship and uncertainty upon farmers wishing to maintain or improve their productive efficiency."

"The solid declaration of support for the water program and a willingness to question the moral, economic and legal justification for the acreage limitation will be good news for all agriculture," declared McClain. "Previously, Dr. Rafferty went on record in opposition to the grape boycott."

Unites Staes cranberry production is estimated at seven per cent above last year.

FRESNO STATE TEAM TOPS BEEF JUDGING

PORTLAND - The Fresno State College Livestock Judging team placed first in judging beef cattle at the Portland Intercollegiate Livestock Judging contest in Portland, Ore., October 4-5. Last year, the FSC judging team received first high award in the same contest. This year the team also received a fifth place award in overall judging competition.

QUICK DECLINE

However, after a series of grower meetings and expressions of considerable discontent with agency operation, a new plan was worked out through which the districts that composed the agency would go on their own in so far as red scale control was concerned, but would continue to function as an agency for quick decline control.

"This arrangement seems to be working out well in so far as citrus growers in southeastern Tulare county are concerned," says R.J. Owen, manager of the Southern Tulare County Citrus Pest Control district.

"The district tax is now 53.9 cents per 100-tree acre, compared to the old agency tax of $4.21 per 100-tree acre, and our district budget is now $26,500, of which $6,500 goes toward red scale work and $20,000 goes into the agency as our district share of a $100,000 budget to fight quick decline."

Under the new setup, however, more responsibility falls on individual citrus growers in so far as red scale control is concerned.

"Now each grower is responsible for detecting red scale in his own orchard, and he is financially responsible for its control," Owen points out. "Grower cooperation has been good, also cooperation of packing house field men, Agricultural Commissioner office inspectors, and representatives of insecticide companies in assisting growers with their red scale control program."

In a recent letter to citrus growers, B.N. Randolph, president of the board of directors of the Southern Tulare County Citrus Pest Control district pointed out that "California red scale is rated as the most serious citrus pest in the world," and he urged growers to "call your packing house manager, your pest control operator, or pesticide salesman if you see anything that resembles red scale."

Owen states that during the past few months weather conditions have been favorable for extra hatches of red scale, and that new infestations have shown up in several areas of the district.

"Because of this," he says, "it is extremely important that citrus growers understand that they are now on their own and that they not only must be alert to new red scale infestations, but that they must also hit these infestations before they have a chance to spread."

In so far as the quick decline program is concerned, Owen says that the agency, with help from county and state agricultural inspectors, as well as agency inspectors, using both ground and air survey methods, seem to be able to find outbreaks of quick decline early.

Potential seriousness of quick decline comes from the fact that a high percentage of old citrus plantings in the San Joaquin valley are on sour root stock which is highly susceptible to quick decline, plus the fact that "carrier" trees that are not affected by quick decline but that carry the disease have come into Tulare county through recent plantings.

In the Porterville area 19 infected trees were found last month - and destroyed, along with some 45 carrier trees in the area that were planted about 10 years ago as re-sets.

Another grove in the Porterville area is now being tested for quick decline, also a grove in the Ivanhoe area.

Through an indexing program, operated by the state department of agriculture, quick decline infected trees and quick decline carrier trees are being identified and destroyed.

Growers are compensated for destroyed trees through general funds of the Central California agency.

Operation of the Central California Pest Control agency and the Southern Tulare County Citrus Pest Control district is financed solely through a tax on citrus growers - not through general tax funds.

Other members of the Southern Tulare County Citrus Pest Control board are: William P. Bennett, A.F. Cemo, Darrel Byers, and Solon Boydston.

Concerning red scale control, it now appears that growers are going back to oil spray in preference to some insecticides, since control seems to be effective, and since oil does not kill beneficial parasites that work on other citrus pests.

As yet, no parasite has been found that will control red scale in the San Joaquin valley, although parasites are effective in southern California. The comperiella parasite, however, is effective against yellow scale in Tulare county.

Both Owen and Randolph report that indications now are that good results have been obtained this fall in both red and yellow scale control within the district.
